To Whom It May Concern:

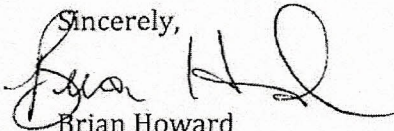

This is a letter of recommendation for Steve Vest. Steve has been a student in a number of video-related courses that I teach and he has worked for me on the staff of the television program, Latter-day Profiles. Steve has an excellent work ethic and is willing to work hard to get his assignments and projects completed on time.

Steve was a student in a course I teach titled, "Multimedia Video Journalism". He took the initiative to pursue stories that were difficult to do and that moved him out of the comfort zone in which most students operate. For one story, Steve tracked down local homeowners who were under pressure to sell their homes for new development. It was a frustrating experience for him, but it was also an excellent learning experience and the final product was nicely done.

As a staff member on the television program, Latter-day Profiles, Steve was a reliable contributor for both the live production crew, and for video editing in postproduction. He was knowledgeable and willing to learn more about cameras and lighting as well as video editing.

If you have any questions or would like further information, please contact me.
